The Samburu National Reserve is a game reserve on the banks of the Ewaso Ng'iro river in Kenya. On the other side of the river is the Buffalo Springs National Reserve. The park is 165 km<sup>2</sup> in size and is situated 350 kilometers from Nairobi. It ranges in altitude from 800 to 1230 m above sea level. In the middle of the reserve, the Ewaso Ng'iro flows through doum palm groves and thick riverine forests. It provides water, without which the game in this arid region could not survive. The Samburu National Reserve was one of the two areas in which conservationists George and Joy Adamson raised Elsa the Lioness, made famous in the best-selling book and award-winning movie Born Free. The Elephant Watch Camp, of which Saba Douglas-Hamilton is director, lies within the park. There is a wide variety of animal and bird life seen at Samburu National Reserve. Several large game species common to Kenya's northern plains can be found in abundance here, including the following dry-country fauna: gerenuk, Grevy's zebra, oryx and reticulated giraffe. All three big cats, the lion, cheetah and African leopard can also be found here, as well as the elephant, Cape buffalo and hippopotamus. There are over 350 species of bird. These include grey-headed kingfisher, sunbirds, bee-eaters, Marabou stork, tawny eagle (..)
The Ewaso Ng'iro river contains large numbers of Nile crocodile basks.[4]
Since 2005, the protected area is considered part of a Lion Conservation Unit.

DAY 3

Breakfast and departure for the Safari, lunch break and then afternoon safari until sunset.

We will discuss with our guide, depending on weather and local conditions, how to structure and schedule the safari route.

DAY 4

Breakfast and departure for The Stables Camp, arrival in the late morning. Lunch included. Safari until sunset. Dinner and overnight.

The Laikipia region, in the Great Rift Valley, offers a truly unique sight!

There is a small and private eco-sustainable Conservancy at the foot of Mount Kenya, the only place in the country where you can see chimpanzees, as well as the largest refuge for black rhinos in East Africa. The chimpanzees are not native to Kenya but the shelter was established to rehabilitate animals rescued from the black market. It is also home to three of the last remaining northern white rhinos in the world. When you go on a safari in Ol Pejeta, you don't just make a visit, but you have a unique experience. Here you can help preserve the future of the big cats by following the collared radio lions, you can follow the footprints and marks left in the bush by the animals for the deepest and most complete safari of your life. You will also have the opportunity to meet, once in a lifetime, the mighty rhinos up close and hear their incredible stories from their caregivers around the clock. Ol Pejeta was born as a breeding ranch in the early 1940s, established by Lord Delamere, known as one of Kenya's earliest and most influential English settlers. In the late 1960s, poaching in Kenya by European hunters caused a serious loss in the number of animals. The number of elephants and rhinos plummeted and, despite elephant hunting was declared illegal in 1973, their numbers continued to decline. This involved one of the first owners of Ol Pejeta, who founded the Sweetwaters Game Reserve in 1988 as a refuge for black rhinos and other animals.

After that, the Reserve expanded to cover 90,000 acres, today Ol Pejeta. Now Ol Pejeta uses agriculture and tourism to create surplus entirely reinvested in animal conservation and community development, such as education, health and infrastructure for the new generation of rangers. The IUCN Green Listing intends to recognize excellence in managing natural areas and in 2014 awarded Ol Pejeta.

DAY 5

Breakfast and departure for Lake Naivasha.
Accommodation at Dove Nest Lodge
(<http://dovenestlodge.com/index.php/en/>).
Afternoon with boat safari to see hippos and various species of African birds. Lunch, dinner and overnight stay included.

Lake Naivasha is a freshwater lake, part of the Great Rift Valley. The name derives from the local Maasai name Nai'posha, meaning "rough water" because of the sudden storms which can arise. Lake Naivasha is at the highest elevation of the Kenyan Rift valley at 1,884 metres (6,181 ft) in a complex geological combination of volcanic rocks and sedimentary deposits from a larger Pleistocene Era lake. There is no visible outlet, but since the lake water is relatively fresh it is assumed to have an underground outflow.

The lake had a normal surface area of 139 square kilometres before 2010 and had increased to 198 square kilometres by 2020. It is surrounded by a swamp which covers an area of 64 square kilometres (25 sq mi), but this can vary largely depending on rainfall. It is situated at an altitude of 1,884 metres. The lake has an average depth of 6 metres with a maximum of 30 metres.

The lake is home to a variety of types of wildlife including over 400 different species of bird and a sizable population of hippos. The fish community in the lake has been highly variable over time, influenced by changes in climate, fishing effort and the introduction of invasive species.

DAY 6

Breakfast and departure for the Masai Mara Reserve, where the planned accommodation at the renovated Fisi Camp (<https://www.fisicamp.com/>).
Safari until sunset, with lunch and dinner included.

Maasai Mara is one of the most famous and important wildlife conservation and wilderness areas in Africa, world-renowned for its exceptional populations of lion, leopard, cheetah and African bush elephant. It also hosts the Great Migration, which secured it as one of the Seven Natural Wonders of Africa. The Masai Mara is located within the Great Rift Valley, in the southern part of Kenya, about 280 km southeast of Nairobi towards the border with Tanzania, at an altitude between 1500 m. and the 2000 m. above sea level. The typology of the Reserve is mainly open savannah (grasslands), with groups of acacia trees along the south-east area of the Reserve. The Mara and Telek rivers bathe the plain of the Reserve. The Miriade stream is a seasonal stream that appears only during the rainy season and disappears when summer arrives.

The Masai Mara Reserve is considered "MUST SEE" to visit for all travelers crossing Kenya. The Reserve has the ideal characteristics to host a large variety of animals and a rich vegetation. The territory with the richest concentration of wildlife: in addition to the "Big Five" (lions, elephants, leopards, rhinos and buffaloes), you can find in large quantities zebras, antelopes, hippos, crocodiles and many other animals. There are several varieties of birds including vultures, ostriches, white-headed sea eagles, honey-crested buzzard, pygmy hawks, secretary birds, turaco, red-winged marabou, suspicious guinea and many more. The Reserve has the largest concentration of African lions, including the black maned lions.
